Program fees cover all of the costs associated with volunteers' participation, e.g., lodging, food, transport, staff, and all activities, in addition to a donation to support the continuation of LTOs work.

Love The Oceans is British Standard 8848:2014 certified, which means we are committed to managing our projects and expeditions as safely as possible. We work with, and invest in our community to ensure that everyone can enjoy a safe environment.

When volunteering, it's vital to choose an ethical organisation which makes a genuine difference. It is of the utmost importance that you do your research!

At Love The Oceans our finances are transparent, and yes, the positive impact of your work will be sustained! Your energy, commitment, skills, and money support Love The Oceans marine conservation research activities and outreach development projects.
